Bryce Bertanzetti

I'm a two-year senior from Boca Raton, Florida. I live in Guptill House on campus. I started my music career in 3rd grade playing piano and trumpet. However, I quickly switched from trumpet to saxophone and haven't looked back. I've been playing jazz ever since first being recruited to play in my middle school jazz band way back in 5th grade. My love for jazz has only grown since then. Music is the class I look forward to the most every day and it will continue to be one of the great joys of my life. Thank you to Mr. Rabb and the whole PEA music staff!

Ryan Hasapis

I am a two-year senior from New York, and I live in Guptill House (formerly known as Front Street) on campus. I have played the alto saxophone since third grade when I was denied the opportunity to play in my (then) public school's classical ensemble. I began taking lessons with a saxophone teacher who decided to teach me jazz. From there, my interest in jazz grew, all through middle school, where I spent three years playing at Middle School Jazz Academy at Lincoln Center. I have played in my high school jazz bands for all four years, but coming to Exeter has allowed me to pursue a more focused study of jazz, with Mr. Rabb's Big Band, a smaller ensemble group, and Mr. Mainella, my private lessons instructor. I am very grateful for the opportunities that have enabled me to continue playing jazz.

Darya Lincoln

I'm a four-year senior in Amen Hall. I've always had a strong love for music; some of my fondest memories were playing the ukulele with my grandmother. I remember picking the trumpet in 4th grade not because of its distinct tone or pitch, but because of its shiny valves. Before I came to Exeter, I had no understanding of jazz in any shape or form. During my first year, I took music lessons with Mr. Rabb until he suggested to me that I join the PEA Jazz band. The genre has taught me that escaping the constraints of mundane sheet music is more than normal and, at times, necessary. Ever since, Mr. Rabb has been the biggest supporter of my music journey; he's my rock of the Exeter Music Department.

Nathi Lomax

I'm a four-year senior from South Hampton, NH. I started playing the saxophone when I started fourth grade when I lived in Thailand. I originally wanted to play the trumpet but due to my limited knowledge of instruments, I asked to play the saxophone thinking that that was what the trumpet was called. Boy, was I wrong. My school band listened to my request and lent me a saxophone. I learned the instrument I was given anyway and 8 years later, I now finish my last year as a tenor sax player in the Exeter Jazz Ensemble. Music is now an essential part of my life, and I would like to thank Mr. Runjumrus in Thailand, Mr. Emanuel from my middle school, Mr. Jennison, and of course Mr. Rabb here at Exeter and all those along the way for teaching me to have music as passion.

Caroline Newby

I'm a three-year senior from Austin, Texas, and have been playing the flute for many years. I've loved getting to be a part of Concert Band and Global Rhythm Ensemble with Mr. Rabb while at Exeter; our practices are always fun, and the people I've gotten to know have meant the most to me while here. I'm excited to continue playing through college, and am so grateful for everything Exeter has taught me about music and the importance of passion while playing.

Lydia Reimert

Since arriving at Exeter as a new lower, I've been a part of Band with Mr. Rabb. I started playing clarinet in middle school, but Band at Exeter was my first experience playing the instrument in an ensemble. I've loved playing a combination of popular music and more traditional band pieces with this group. I've always found joy in both playing and listening to music and I can't wait to continue doing so after Exeter.

Lana Wu

I'm a four-year senior from Greenland, New Hampshire and I have always been involved with music. I learned how to play piano when I was 5, and I started playing the flute in fourth grade before switching to percussion the start of my upper year. When I first came to Exeter, I wanted to try doing a music program that wasn't too high of a commitment and something I could look forward to over the week, and Concert band was perfect for that. I would like to thank Mr. Rabb for giving me highlights in my weeks and showing me how to enjoy music.
